

King Crab

King Crab had a crown. He would swim all day long. He would eat green grapes, clams, and snails. The food would help him grow. He would slip from place to place. When he was on land, he would look at trees, clouds, grain and trains.

King Crab was to take a bride. Her name was Fran. She was a small green frog. She had a nice smile. She would come to see King Crab each day, but she did not love him. She saw him as a good friend.

Fran loved Jeff who was a bull frog. He was fun and wanted to swim off into the sunset with Fran. King Crab did not like this. He wanted Fran for his bride. Fran had a talk with King Crab. She told him she loved Jeff. She told King Crab he would always be her friend. He said it was fine to marry Jeff.

Smells and Pals

Sue, a small black and white skunk, sat on the crest of a grassy hill. The sun was shining, but she was not happy. She had no friends because she smelled.

Sue saw a brown snake slip down his hole to get away from her smell. It made her sad. She soon saw a small black dot getting bigger and bigger as it got closer to her. He was not running, swimming, or flying away. It turned out to be a small brown snail, named Mike. "I just moved here from the shore. Will you be my friend?" he asked.

"What about my smell?" asked Sue. "I can't smell anything! I don't have a nose," said Mike. Sue and Mike became very good friends.
